Mr. Darden,

My husband and I want to thank you and the staff in the Birmingham office of the NWS for all you do to keep Alabama save. We know how hardworking the meteorologists and the support staff are and how dedicated you are to public safety.

I have a niece who lived outside of Montgomery in a rural area and except for the quick warning she received from the NWS she might very well not be here. She heard the warning and the specific area being targeted and only had time to get to her bathroom before the house blew away around her.

We can't imagine how demoralizing the statement from NOA must have been. Thank you for doing your job and telling the truth. Please share with the people in your office that there are many of us who appreciate the work you do and consider it the most important public safety services provided by the government.
