Subject: re recent NOAA statement on threat to Alabama

Sir:

I have been a practicing meteorologist for 38 years and a member of the AMS since my student days nearly 40 years ago. I trust you are familiar with the axiom that trust accrues slowly over time, but can be squandered in an instant. Shame on you for your recent action, indulging the foibles of a man manifestly unfit for the office he now holds, all questions of policy aside.

I can only conclude that you lacked the moral character to resist pressure placed upon either you or your agency by this present corrupt administration, or that the above axiom means nothing to you. Either way, you should look in the mirror and ask yourself whether or not you are worthy to stand in a position of such public trust. This was a test, and you failed it.

Thank you for your time.

With regret,
