Dear Craig:

Read this morning of your response to NOAA's directive to its staff regarding the Alabama incident. I congratulate you and your courage to open an inquiry and to support the scientists who refuted the Administration's false statements regarding the path of hurricane Dorian.

I've been concerned for some time that the anti-science position of the White House is doing the nation great harm not only in terms of weather, but across the board. I'm now retired but still have an interest in the oceans and NOAA. Keep up the good work!

Thanks,

Bob Wicklund
