Dr. Jacobs.

I am so disappointed in NOAA's tweet about the Alabama information. No one believes the tweet and it severely undermines the credibility of the Agency. America has come to rely upon certain organizations to tell us the truth. Yours was one of them. We listened and relied upon your announcements, sometimes for making life altering decisions in the face of disasters like Dorian. To have to think twice about the veracity of your announcements puts lives at risk. This serious blow to NOAA's reputation was unnecessary. It was an obvious political stunt, but the impact will be long lasting.
