

Robert S. Broadhead

From: Robert S. Broadhead
Sent: Tuesday, September 10, 2019 11:33 AM
To: neil.jacobs@noaa.gov; julie.roberts@noaa.gov
Subject: Fwd: Trump vs. Weather

I thought you two would worship this news... and take it literally.
Congratulations on your leadership and integrity.

Bob

Begin forwarded message:

From: The Borowitz Report <newyorker@newsletter.newyorker.com>
Subject: Trump vs. Weather
Date: September 10, 2019 at 9:04:44 AM MDT
To: [REDACTED] (b)(6)
Reply-To: newyorker@newsletter.newyorker.com

View in browser | Update your preferences

Not the news.

Donald Trump signs an executive order.

Satire from The Borowitz Report

Trump Signs Executive Order Giving Him Control of Weather

After signing the order, a beaming Trump pronounced “total victory” over the weather, which he called “the enemy of the people.”

By Andy Borowitz

Satire from The Borowitz Report

Unskilled Man

President Donald Trump.

Fears He Will Lose Job in Recession

The man, who has barely clung to his job for the past two and a half years, is justified in believing that an economic downturn would result in his unemployment, experts said.

By Andy Borowitz

US President Barack Obama smiling.

Satire from The Borowitz Report

Trump Demands Facebook Investigate Why Obama's Post Got So Many Likes

“There is absolutely no way that eight hundred and fifty thousand people liked Obama’s post,” Trump said. “I know a lot of people, and absolutely none of them like Obama.”

By Andy Borowitz

More Humor from The New Yorker

Daily Shouts

My Typical New York Day

Bird's eye view over manhattan.

I work a pretty standard New York day of between nineteen and thirty-seven hours. My weekly salary ranges between two and hundred fifty thousand dollars and a fifteen-dollar coupon for lunch at the Olive Garden.

By Eddie Small

butterfly on a nose

Shouts & Murmurs

It's Not You

After I woke up as a bug, I realized that you don't need a man if you have both male and female bug genitals.

By Cirocco Dunlap

Daily Shouts

The World's Greatest Dealmaker

A master of the craft sets his sights on a local garage sale.

By Ward Sutton

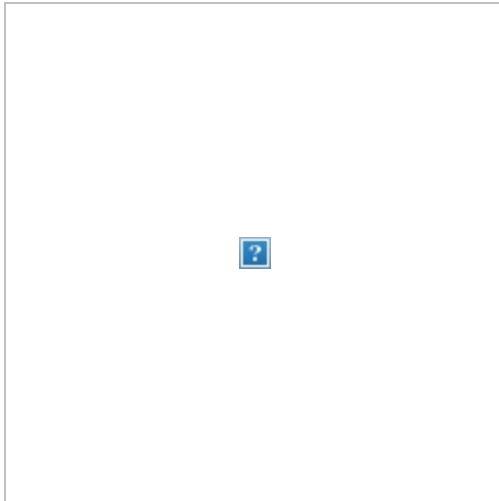

PAID POST

"Trump made himself out of television. He treated his life as a show."

In Audience of One, New York Times television critic James Poniewozik crafts a history of modern TV to explain how a camera-hogging antihero became president. Emily Nussbaum calls it "The Mueller Report of television criticism.... A witty, penetrating exposé."

Back to the Real News . . .

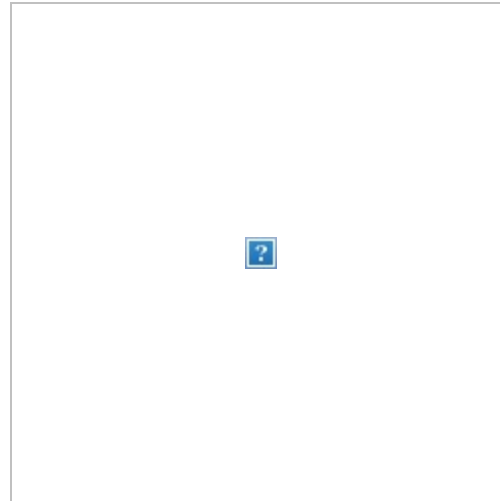

Our Columnists

Trump's Stunt with the Taliban Was Not About Negotiating Peace

In a furious series of tweets, the President both revealed and cancelled a summit with the militant group, to have taken place at historic Camp David.

By Robin Wright

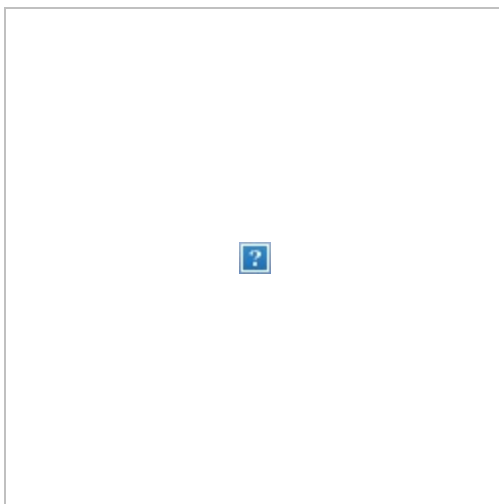

Essay

Clarence Thomas's Radical Vision of Race

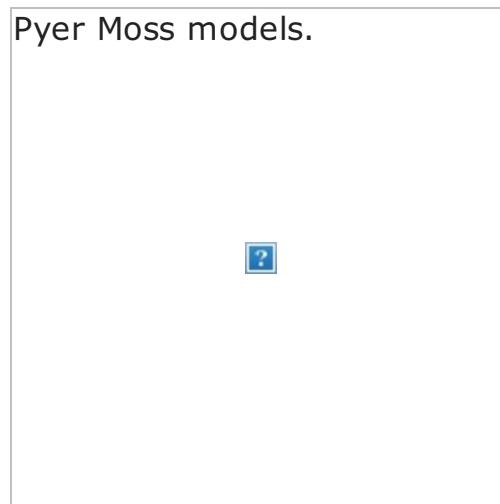

Thomas has moved from black nationalism to the right. But his beliefs about racism, and our ability to solve it, remain the same.

By Corey Robin

The Sporting Scene

The Perils of Semi-

On and Off the Avenue

A Message of Useful

Legal Poker

By exploiting a legal loophole, two friends tried to build gambling businesses in Texas. They were dealt very different hands.

By Kashmir Hill

Beauty from New York Fashion Week

I am optimistic about the futures of some of the very youngest designers precisely because they are palpably pessimistic about the future at large.

By Troy Patterson

Sign up for more newsletters from The New Yorker.

Visit The New Yorker shop.

Question about your subscription? Contact Customer Care.

New Yorker digital subscribers get unlimited access to everything on newyorker.com. Log in to your account here.

We'd love your feedback on this newsletter. Please send your thoughts and suggestions to TNYinbox@newyorker.com.

This e-mail was sent to you by The New Yorker. To ensure delivery to your inbox (not bulk or junk folders), please add our e-mail address, NewYorker@newsletters.newyorker.com, to your address book.

View our Privacy Policy

Unsubscribe

Copyright © Condé Nast 2019. One World Trade Center, New York, NY 10007.

All rights reserved.