I think he was ok with some of the list items but not all (Mill, Deer, KLOG as examples) and the longer the conversation droned along the more I started thinking that there are other ways for us to make this work to achieve the same end goal rather than getting stuck on it and having to elevate another topic. Completely agree with conservation recommendations but also think terms and conditions.

Yea, my notes were specific that we would have the list as types of projects, but it would be a specific list. Obviously we cant give any credit for anything with this approach. I was trying to get some credit and also keep the specific list for our future selves to track. I'm wondering if we can still include the list in some way - - maybe in conservation recommendations ?

Also meant to say that he also wanted to pull the science component out but in the end agreed to leave it. Lesson from this exercise over the past few weeks, is to get the details of director agreements specifically nailed down without loose ends for someone to unravel...very frustrating to have these kinds of conversations with him.

Hey Howard,
Just checking in. Any response from Dave on this? Do you know if he is ok including it in the PA?

Dave,
Attached is our write up on Collaborative Planning. It incorporates the other forum actions and science pieces that we think fit well with the intent of collaboration. Happy to discuss.
