Caveats look good to me. I think it's fine to have them clearly stand out. Thanks Barb.

I suggested three caveats in the intro of the EB memo on google drive. These capture the points that Chris Keifer suggested we build into the memo when I talked to him on Wednesday (he called me about a Stanislaus letter he was reviewing; I asked him a high-level question about EB and we ended up talking about the memo...).

1. Do what you like with these suggestions -- I think the points are good to include (per Chris's advice), but my edits aren't the most elegant. If you think these points are made elsewhere (or want to make them elsewhere) in the doc, I defer to you two.
2. My brain is fried and I haven't looked at the rest of the memo -- thanks to you both for making this happen.
